Session Description

Want to start using social media to your organization's best advantage? By monitoring social media websites for brand recognition, AutoTrader.com noticed customers were posting service issues and seeking solutions. The company quickly discovered that they needed a process for addressing customer issues via social media. Find out how their marketing and customer operations teams collaborated on a pilot project, dubbed Social CRM, to explore how social media could expand their reach and resolve problems before they turned into customer service issues.

Speaker Background

Joe Bannon, Consumer Services Program Director at AutoTrader.com, is a 30 year veteran of the advertising and media industry. Joe has been at AutoTrader.com since January 2003. Prior to his role in Consumer Services, Joe was the Director of Consumer Sales and Support and before that the Director of Strategic Planning and Sales Operations. He is currently a member of AutoTrader.com's Innovation Garage Council and Social Media Strategy team, fostering innovation and participation in the social web. Joe holds an MBA and a B.S. in Advertising University of Florida where he earned a B.S. in Advertising and an MBA. Joe and his wife Jennifer reside in the intown Atlanta community of Morningside, with their daughters Sara (14) and son Jackson (12). In his free time, Joe enjoys playing bass and guitar in RoadKill and Cox Rocks, volunteering with ATC's Community Relations team and the Cox Enterprises/Chamblee High School Mentoring Program and enjoying life inside the perimeter.

Where do we want to go?

Social CRM

We had some goals for Social CRM in mind, but we first needed to confirm they were:

1. Meaningful to both our customers and to our business
2. Something the company could get behind
3. Realistic

We started:

1. Partnering with Marketing and our Training Department
2. Getting buy-in
3. Listening, monitoring and seeing what was out there with a customer service hat on

What did we find when we started listening?

Autotrader or Cars.com to sell a car?

I just bought a 2010 STI Special Edition and I am selling my 2008 Scion TC supercharged. I have list on multiple car forums, Craigslist, Facebook marketplace, and Vaux (all free). I have had pretty good interest but no buyer so far. The price is more than fair.

http://www.scorlife.com/forums/showthread.php?t=181074

Now I may have to invest some money to sell this. I am debating between Autotrader and Cars.com which one is better?

What did we find when we started listening?

Hello everyone!

I'm new to the forums and I'm really looking forward to sharing some of my experiences in the car industry as well as looking for some advice!

I've come here because as an advertiser for vehicles for my dealership, I am absolutely stuck. And I mean STUCK.

The dealership I work for is Metropolis Auto Sales. The website is here ---> www.metropolisautos.com

What really bites me is that I cannot figure out why I can't sell any cars. When I first began working, things were fabulous. Now, I can barely push any cars out to be sold for the dealership. I'm taking pictures, posting on Craigslist, we belong to Autotrader, etc. and I still can't figure out why I can't pull in anyone. With people I email, I give the most respect I can to a potential customer, etc. and I can't get them to contact me back.

I guess what I'm looking for is, what am I doing wrong here? What are some ways I will be able to pull in customers like a successful fisherman catching dozens of fish in an hour?

One thing I will be doing is an inventory refresh, which will be retaking photos of all the cars I have listed and maybe doing a little more of a writeup for each of them.

Does anyone have the slightest amount of suggestions? Anything is appreciated. Thank you!

For ATC Social CRM = Advice, Awareness and Education

Where do we want to go?

Goals of Social Customer Relationship Management

- Set some clear, simple goals
- Just a few is fine
- For Social CRM, make sure that they are customer centric

23

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

For Social CRM = Advice, Awareness and Education

Where do we want to go?

Educate consumers who visit social networking sites and who are seeking automotive information such as car buying, trade-in or selling advice, and information about ATC:

- Pros and cons of different sites
- New vs used, selling vs trading, etc.

Goals of Social Customer Relationship Management

Answer questions about buying and selling activities, ATC products or services:

- Advertising a car for sale
- Using other services, such as valuing a car with an online appraisal tools
- Shopping for a new, certified pre-owned or used car
- Educating users about online fraud and how to stay safe on line while buying or selling a car

24

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

For Social CRM = Advice, Awareness and Education

Where do we want to go?

Objectives for Social Customer Relationship Management

- More awareness of AutoTrader.com and of online car shopping, trade-in valuation or private selling
- A more educated car-buying, trading or selling audience
- Increased awareness of online fraud and how to stay safe while buying or selling a car online
- We eventually expect to see a reduction in certain types of interactions, a reduction in our consumers being victims of fraud, more traffic to our valuation tools and more ads from private sellers

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

What's in it for me?

Where do we want to go?

Benefits of Social Customer Relationship Management

- Answering consumer and customer questions via social media will help educate all those using that site and also interested in online car shopping or selling
- The public nature of this social activity will position AutoTrader.com as trusted experts in our space, as well as increase our brand awareness and the use of our products and services
- Through the two-way communication with consumers and customers enabled by social media, AutoTrader.com will stay tuned-in to current shopper and disposer attitudes, trends, needs, wants and preferences

Ok! We have goals, objectives and ROI..what's next?

How do we get there?

Next Steps: Work with MarCom and Other Management to Pilot Social CRM.

- Commit resources to Social Media ahead of the anticipated ROI... "Trailing Monetization of Value"
- Assign appropriate resources: Program Director, Program Manager, Marketing/Communications Liaison, Supervisor and Agents representing Customer Service
- Training on the tools and how to respond to inquiries via Social Media and handle consumer and customer interactions via this new service channel

27

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Ok! We have goals, objectives and ROI..what's next?

How do we get there?

- Decide ahead of time and gain consensus on what types of sites, audiences and consumer or customer conversations to participate in. Do not stray from this without re-visiting the strategy and tactics with the whole team
- Use this Pilot as research and build a Customer Service Social Media Roadmap involving: Audience Strategy, Objectives for each audience, Tactics, Tools/Technology and Metrics

28

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Ok! We have goals, objectives and ROI..what's next?

How do we get there?

- Assigned reps
- Trained on the monitoring tool
- Built up examples of responses reps would use to answer inquiries concerning service and other issues
- Ran Pilot in 2010 and are using the learning to craft a longer term (3 to 5 year) strategy for SCRM

29

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Ok! We have goals, objectives and ROI..what's next?

How do we get there?

- Pilot launched on 6/1/10
- Utilized three groups and 4 agents for pilot
- Allocated 2 hours per week per agent
- Covered Consumer Services Support (2 agents), Corporate Affairs & Fraud, and Dealer Support
- Identified opportunities to provide education, advice or assistance to posts mentioning ATC or related to car buying and selling

Examples of how we responded

Response: AutoTrader.com charges sellers to list their car because we offer products and services, such as reporting, live chat and customer support, that Craigslist, being free, does not. While we can't guarantee a buyer for every car, we are here to help with selling tips and advice at 866 AutoTrader or (866) 288 6872

AutoTrader.com allows you to search by many different criteria, including keyword. You may also filter by year, make, model, color, etc. • Things like new vs. used as well as dealer only, etc.

Examples of how we responded

Response: AutoTrader filters the emailed leads from interested buyers to prevent emails like this, unfortunately we cannot catch them all. For more info about staying safe online, please visit: <http://www.autotrader.com/fraud/>

To report a fraudulent listing or if you have other concerns about on-line fraud, please email fraudwatch@autotrader.com or call 877-742-8040.

I have a 2001 Ford Taurus SES in great condition with 114k miles that I am trying to sell. I have tried the Houston Chronicle and have had no luck there. I have had a few responses via Craigslist but no one serious enough to make an appointment to see the car.

Out of places like autotrader, cars.com, vehi.com, etc., which one gets the most traffic and would be most likely to sell my car? Any other online sales suggestions would be appreciated.

Beware of auto trader's "run till it sells add". My account was deactivated with no notification. I contacted customer service only to be treated with rude customer service reps. On top of that, they wanted to charge me AGAIN to renew my "run till it sells add". I was treated unfairly and received poor customer service from auto trader.

AutoTrader.com Hi Chris, we apologize that your experience with AutoTrader.com customer service was not up to our usual high standards. Run until Sold Ads do automatically expire after one year, but we send out email notifications before that happens. In addition, our policy is to renew Run Until Sold Ads for free if they expire after 1 year. Please call 866AutoTrader with your account information and we will gladly renew your ad, or place another one for you for free.
